Dear Mr. Secretary,

Recently I heard of possible changes you are considering enacting.

I would respectfully ask you to keep the regulations the same for Christian Radio.

The First Amendment guarantees the right of religion. In my judgment no other organization may impose rules that violate the Constitution.

Thank you very much for considering this request.

Sincerely,

Charles S. Thompson

Dear Secretary of The FCC

March 10, 2008

I've signed my petition from savechristianradio.com.And I'm spreading the word to Christian Friends and Relatives. That you are trying to take away

our 1st Amendment Rights of Free speech. I see thatyou want to bring people on these airwaves likeSatanist Homos Geshions etc. That we are all onebig happy family Well it doesn't work that wayyou all hate God and what Christ did on the Cross.

This is Nothing more than a New World Order, & One religion One WorldOne Currency. Nobody isto be left out, well this isn't going to stand. I'm writingto Florida Congressmen and Senators. I will spread the wordNO to New World Order Wall

Comments in Response to Localism Notice of Proposed Rulemaking
MB Docket No. 04-233

" I submit the following comments in response to the Localism Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (the NPRM), released Jan. 24, 2008, in MB Docket No. 04-233.

Any new FCC rules, policies or procedures must not violate First Amendment rights. A number of proposals discussed in the NPRM, if enacted, would do so and must not be adopted.

(1) The FCC must not force radio stations, especially religious broadcasters, to take advice from people who do not share their values. The NPRM's proposed advisory board proposals would impose such unconstitutional mandates. Religious broadcasters who resist advice from those who don't share their values could face increased harassment, complaints and even loss of license for choosing to follow their own consciences, rather than allowing incompatible viewpoints to shape their programming. The First Amendment prohibits government, including the FCC, from dictating what viewpoints a broadcaster, particularly a religious broadcaster, must present.

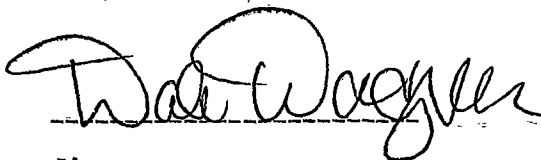

(2) The FCC must not turn every radio station into a public forum where anyone and everyone has rights to air time. Proposed public access requirements would do so even if a religious broadcaster conscientiously objects to the message. The First Amendment forbids imposition of message delivery mandates on any religion.

(3) The FCC must not force revelation of specific editorial decision-making information. The choice of programming, especially religious programming, is not properly dictated by any government agency and proposals to force reporting on such things as who produced what programs would intrude on constitutionally-protected editorial choices.

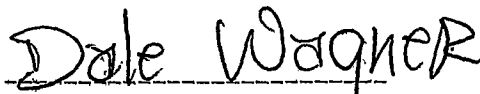

(4) The FCC must not establish a two-tiered renewal system in which certain licensees would be automatically barred from routine renewal application processing. The proposed mandatory special renewal review of certain classes of applicants by the Commissioners themselves would amount to coercion of religious broadcasters. Those who stay true to their consciences and present only the messages they correspond to their beliefs could face long, expensive and potentially ruinous renewal proceedings.

(5) Many Christian broadcasters operate on tight budgets, as do many smaller market secular stations. Keeping the electricity flowing is often a challenge. Yet, the Commission proposes to further squeeze niche and smaller market broadcasters, by substantially raising costs in two ways: (a) by requiring staff presence whenever a station is on the air and, (b) by further restricting main studio location choices. Raising costs with these proposals would force service cutbacks and curtailed service is contrary to the public interest.

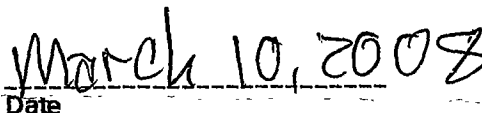

We urge the FCC not to adopt rules, procedures or policies discussed above.
